Rain Pant Types

Dear Pre-K Families, when purchasing rain pants and boots for your child, please keep in mind what your child will be the most comfortable wearing and what will be the easiest for your child to manage putting on and taking off.

The following are a few different styles to consider when purchasing.

The traditional rain pants style has elastic and velcro at the bottom to tighten over rain boots. You can purchase a size larger than needed so that your child can wear these for two or three seasons.

The rain suit style is a great option for really messy play. These are also great in winter to layer over snow pants and jackets for extra warmth and dryness.

A bib style of rain pants is a great option for medium messy play. The bib covers the shirt area if your child does not like to wear a coat when outdoors.

Bedding Options

Students that stay full day for Pre-K will have a rest time as part of their day. Rest time is meant to be a time to rest brains and bodies with minimal distractions while being cozy and comfortable.

Bedding will be sent to school each Monday and sent home on Friday for laundering (unless soiled), beds need to be made daily so we ask for simplicity in preparing your child's rest items.

The following are a few different ideas for bedding.

The "Tot Cot" from Urban Infant. The elastic straps loop around the cot legs while keeping the bedding from slipping. The pillow and the blanket are built into the design.

Traditional crib sheets fit perfectly on the cot. If a crib sheet is sent, please send a small blanket to use as a cover.

One small love item is permitted. Please do not send oversize stuffed animals.
